

Legal structure

We are a Community Interest Company (CIC) with Articles of Association. CICs allow people to set up a limited company specifically to benefit the community or a section of the community. CICs are not charities. They are able to have a much more commercial nature, and as limited companies, offer limited liability to their directors.

A CIC is obliged to pursue the community interest and must report annually on how it does this to the CIC Regulator.

We have an operating agreement with The Orchard Trust to run workshops on their site.
